WALTER'S WIZARD

SELIG VITAGRAPH LUBIN

"BUD'S HEIRESS"

This is a diverting romance of the Diamond S. Ranch, with fascinating girls and romantic riders of the round-up. The American girl is at home in any situation, and this is an eminently wholesome one.

"THE WINNING HAND"

The desperado has the upper hand of the sheriff; by grasping the candle in his teeth, he burns the cords that bind his hands and goes to the rescue of his sweetheart. Featuring Miss Mary Charleson and Mr. Robert Burns.

"PETER'S PLEDGE"

Peter's cousin, Mariah Long, desiring to reform him leaves him her money, with the proviso that he marry Sally Nelson, a very correct old maid, and sign the pledge. He finally does, but puts up a good fight.

RECOVERS MONEY AFTER ODD DREAM

Loses Large Roll of Money while Asleep. Dreams of Finding it and the Next Day Appears in a Mysterious Envelope.

Another chapter has been added to the robbery of Henry Keagy, of near McSherrystown, who awoke in the stable of Hotel O'Bold, Hanover, Saturday evening, March 29th, to find that he had been robbed of $258.

One night last week it is said, he had a dream that he was out in a snow storm, After a while the snow flakes turned into crisp dollar bills, and 244 of them dropped into the hip-pocket of his trousers, which hung on the foot of the bed. When he arose next morning, the dream was still in his mind, he reached into the pocket—but failed to find the money.

However, later in the morning William Stover, rural carrier, stopped at the box in front of the Keagy residence, along the Oxford road, the signal having been adjusted. He lifted the lid and found a long thick envelope, without a stamp, addressed to Mr. Keagy.

He shouted for Mr. Keagy, who, after a brief time, responded, and into his hands he placed the mysterious letter. Keagy broke the seal and to his uttter amazement he found the realization of his dream—for staring him in the face was a roll of money. In the presence of the equally astonished mail-man, he counted the bills and found the total to be exactly $244—just $14 short of what he thought the roll contained when he made his memorable trip to Hanover and the money faded away.

That the wad of notes was identical with the money taken from Mr. Keagy is proved by the fact that one of the $20 bills had a corner torn off, which was pasted together with a strip of paper. This note was found in the roll, and identified by Mr. Keagy.

Ivan Koehler, a young man of Berwick township, who was seen with Keagy that day, is charged with the theft, and he is now held under bail for his apppearance at court.

The return of the money will not affect the legal status of the case, it is said, and Koehler will be brought to trial.

MANY TROUT

This Week will See Opening of Trout Season. Good Prospects.

Fish Commissioner Buller, who has been receiving reports from fish wardens and people interested in fishing from all sections of the state says that the outlook for the trout season which begins on this Tuesday, April 15, is excellent. The open winter and abundance of rain have kept the streams well filled with water and during a good part of the present spring the department planted many trout, all of them of sufficient size to take care of themselves and through the co-operation of members of fishing clubs and of individuals interested in the sport the department was able to obtain care for the young fish and to receive reports as to the manner in which they arrived. Dozens of streams which had lost their reputation as trout streams have been restocked.

GETS WIFE AT LAST

Veteran To Be Rewarded. Fiancee Only 27 Years Old.

John Trout, the Civil War veteran, of near Frederick, who advertised for a wife, and then gave up the effort, selling his belongings at public sale on April 3, has at last found some one to sail the matrimonial sea with him. He appeared at Frederick, Saturday, and secured a license for his marriage to Elsie Burdette, of Lewisdale.

The bride-elect is 27 years old and weighs but 82 pounds. Mr. Trout is 71. His wife died just about a year ago and since that time he has been lonely and last summer he sought the aid of the newspapers to find him another helpmate. A number of applicants have sought his hand, but he was unable to come to terms with any, and finally he was compelled to abandon his attempt and give up housekeeping.

ASSOCIATION OF BOYS AND GIRLS

Young People of Adams County Determine to Spend Summer Months in Improving Farming Conditions and Household Work.

More than one hundred boys and girls, ranging in age from six to nineteen years, on Saturday organized the Adams County Boys' and Girls' Agricultural League, holding their first regular meeting in the Court House at which the following officers were chosen:

President, Ervin C. Miller, Berwick township; vice presidents, Earl J. Waybright, Mount Joy township; Martin Thomas Walter, Butler township; secretary, Louise H. Reynolds, Straban township; assistant secretary, Hope E. Hartman, Franklin township; treasurer, Ruth Pittenturff, York Springs. They adopted as the motto of the association "Improved Farming and House Keeping".

This motto will be the slogan for the boys' and girls' activities for months to come and each will show their special desire for improvement along some particular line, Some will endeavor to raise prize corn, others will devote their energies to growing specially fine flowers, some of the girls will put in their time at cooking; some will grow red beets, others potatoes, cabbage, peanuts, and other vegetables. Canning, manual training work, bread baking, sewing and needlework were selected by various members of the new association as the lines in which they will try to improve.

Throughout the summer months and in the fall all the members will work to produce the very best before an exhibit which the association will conduct in Gettysburg some time during the year. The various agricultural associations in the county together with individuals are contributing toward a prize fund and it is the intention of the promoters of the plan to offer prizes in every department so that the boy who grows corn will compete for one prize while the girl who tries to put up the best exhibition of needle work will compete for another.

While all will work with the exhibit here as their principal incentive many will prepare to enter one or other of the corn growing contests being conducted throughout the State. In raising corn or potatoes the Adams County boys and girls will have to take a plot of ground containing one fourth of an acre. A committee consisting of his father and two neighbors will measure this plot and also act as a committee for the husking and weighing of the exhibits in the summer and fall.

The place of the exhibit and the date have not yet been determined upon but it will be held somewhere in Gettysburg.

While the association starts with a charter membership of 125, the rolls are open for further members and it is expected to increase the number considerably.

General plans are in charge of County Superintendent H. Milton Roth who presided at Saturday's meeting.

DRAIN LAKE ROYER

Lake Royer has been drained, in order that the bottom and the lower bank, damaged by the recent high waters, may be repaired. There is less water in the lake than at any time heretofore. The old bridge over the sluiceway, washed from its foundation by the flood, is still lying broken under the falls.

The stone crusher at work at Cascade preparing ballast for the trolley extension to Monterey lane, is using up the stone from the five acres of land near the Bachrach cottage, owned by J. F. Good and Benjamin Shockey, from which the large timber was cut.

WHEAT CROP

Well Advanced Before Big Rains and Cold Snap Came.

From all accounts the wheat crop of the State has not suffered to any extent from the recent variable weather which has visited the wheat growing counties, according to reports which have reached the State Department of Agriculture. The wheat was well advanced before the heavy rains began and the stalks sturdy before the recent cold snap came on. Unless there should be some pests the wheat crop in Pennsylvania this year will be large.

TO VISIT TOWN DURING WEEK

John C. Groome, in Charge of the State Constabulary, and Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Head of Department of Health, to Visit Town.

The commission having in charge the arrangements for the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg will meet in Harrisburg on next Friday afternoon at its office in the capitol, and go over matters as far as they have been perfected. Colonel Schoonmaker, President of the Commission, has arranged to spend one day in the week at headquarters and meet all who have any business with the Commission. Already there have been many inquiries from those who contemplate bidding on the furnishing of the supplies that the state will pay for.

At the request of the citizens the State will in a measure look after the comfort and care for the many thousands of visitors who will attend the big anniversary and Governor Tener is arranging to carry out the promises made.

Captain John C. Groome, Superintendent of State Police, will come to Gettysburg this week to see about placing a sufficient number of State police in the town to preserve order and see that there is no invasion of bad men.

State Health Commissioner Dixon and Dr. Snow, chief engineer of the department, will also come to Gettysburg this week about the establishing of a temporary hospital at which others than the veterans will be cared for in case of illness. They will also confer with the local committee relative to the placing of the latrines on the streets of town.

A regiment of infantry and a squadron of cavalry will be in Gettysburg during the celebration.

IMPROVING INN

Old Graffenburg to be Materially Changed Inside.

The proposed improvements to Graffenburg Inn by the State Forestry commission, have commenced. The improvements are more extensive than any made to the old tavern building since it passed to the ownership of the state.

On the first floor the changes will cover the reception room or office, the main dining room and the kitchen. The small dining room adjacent to the main hall will be thrown into the reception room or office adding to the office about ten feet additional length.

What was formerly the old parlors on the western side of the entrance hall have already been changed. The old fire place of plaster has been uncovered, disclosing the bricks of a century ago which are retained in the masonry of the chimney-piece. Other additions have been made to the comfort and colonial appearance of these quarters.

The old rear kitchen building was torn down Saturday. Adding a part of the old kitchen to the dining hall will make the latter room 18 by 42 feet. The new kitchen will be commodious and fitted with all modern culinary conveniences. The kitchen will be 16 by 26 feet in size, with a capacious pantry of 8 by 26 feet intervening between kitchen and dining room.

The dining room will be newly floored and when the tables are removed will make a beautiful assembly hall or dancing room unequaled in this section. The wainscoting and walls will be of white enamel. The outside doors and doors leading to pantry will have glass panels. The rear of the dining hall will be semi-arched making a handsome effect and bringing to that section of the room a degree of privacy.

The improvements, under the immediate direction of Forester Conklin, will be advanced rapidly. Already applications for summer rooms at the Inn have exceeded the accommodations available but not all applications have been favorably answered in order that those in this immediate vicinity may be first cared for.

Miss Mary H. Withers will continue the management of the Inn and it will remain open for guests uninterruptedly while the improvements are being made.

LOST HER LIFE IT DAYTON FLOOD

Mrs. Noel of Centennial, Oxford township, has received a note from her cousin, Mrs. Josephine O'Neil Himes, of Dayton, Ohio, under date of April 7th, containing a brief account of her experiences in the flood and of the drowning of her sister, Mrs. Martha O'Neal Fulweiler, while both were struggling in the raging waters. These ladies, widows, were daughters of the late James O'Neal, well known in Gettysburg and vicinity, some years ago, as a traveling salesman of a harvester company, and a relative of the O'Neals, of Mt. Rock and vicinity. They resided together in a house that was swept away by the flood. The letter follows:

"Dear Cousin:—I will try to write a few lines but my heart is broken, when I tell you that all I lived for is gone. Sister Martha is drowned. I had to see her trying to hold to the roof and three times her hands slipped. I cannot tell you very much about it. I was saved and she is gone.

"We were in the water on the piano; it turned with us and then we were thrown into the water. I was taken to the next house. Her body caught a wire and hung from Tuesday until Thursday. I was taken to the relief and a friend ordered her body to the undertaker on the hill across from the relief, and I supposed that it would all be all right. She was buried last Monday from St. Mary's church; her pastor said the Mass. She prayed all the time we were in the water, almost frozen. You may know how terrible it was.

"There is nothing but two chairs left in the house, books, beds, all gone. The doctor forbids me to go out now, but thank God, I kept up until she was laid to rest. I do not know what I write. I am shaking like a leaf."

TO BE WARMER

Weather Will Be Fair, is Prediction of Weather Bureau.

Slightly warmer temperatures, less rainfall and fair weather generally east of the Rockies during the forepart of the week are the probabilities offered by Chief Willis L. Moore, of the Weather Bureau, in his weekly bulletin.

"The distribution of atmospheric pressure over the Northern Hemisphere," says the bulletin, "is such as to indicate that temperatures will average near or above the normal the coming week in all parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains and slightly below normal on the Pacific slope. The rainfall during the week will be generally below normal.

"Fair weather will prevail during the next several days over the greater part of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, while rains will be frequent during the week in the North Pacific States.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear over the Far West Monday or Tuesday, cross the Rocky Mountains about Wednesday, the great Central Valleys Thursday or Friday and the Eastern States near the close of the week. This disturbance will be preceded by warm weather, be attended by showers and thunderstorms and be followed by cooler weather."

TOLD HIS WIFE A GOOD JOKE.

And Then Accused Her of Having No Sense of Humor.

Englishmen are often accused of being unable to grasp the point of the American pun, and sometimes they may think they see the point of a joke when perhaps they do not. An Englishman named Morley was walking along the sidewalk one day with an American friend when the latter inadvertently slipped and fell down.

"Ah, my dear boy, I hope you are not hurt! How did it happen?"

To which the friend replied:

"It happened notwithstanding."

They both laughed over the pun, and Morley said it was so good he was going to tell his wife about it. At dinner that evening he remarked that he had such a good joke on his friend Brown, and by way of preliminary, leading up to the point of his story, he proceeded to tell all about who Brown was, his associations and business connections, how he came to get acquainted with him, commercial relations he had had with him, etc. until he forgot about the story, but was reminded of it by the wife, who said impatiently:

"But what about the story?"

"Oh, yes!" laughing immoderately as the recollection of it struck him. "Why, you see, Brown and I were walking down the street together, and he slipped on a banana peeling and fell down, and when I asked him how it happened he said 'Nevertheless.'"

And he was sore at her all evening and declared she had no sense of humor because she said she didn't see anything funny to that.

Some of the finest stalks of pieplant the writer ever saw were shown us the other day—March 15—by a lady reader of these notes. The bed in which the pieplant roots were set was intended for a mushroom bed, but the temperature of the cellar was too cold for this purpose. The pieplant roots were taken up after they had frozen solid and put in the bed mentioned just above a layer of partly heated horse manure and covered with earth. The roots were watered once a week thereafter with warm soapsuds, and this was all the care they had. The stalks were an inch and a half thick when cut, pink and plump, and it made a fellow's mouth water to think of the pie they would make.

ASSASSIN FIRES ON SPANISH KING

Shot at Three Times on Street in Madrid.

ASSAILANT IS CAPTURED

Attempt to Murder Alfonso Took Place as He Was Returning From Military Review and He Escapes Injury.

Madrid, Spain, April 14. — Three shots were fired at King Alfonso as he was returning from a military review. The king was unharmed. One of the bullets struck his horse in the chest.

The attempt at assassination occurred in the street opposite the Bank of Spain. The young man who fired the shots has been arrested.

The king was returning to the palace from a review of recruits and the ceremony of swearing in of the troops and the presentation of colors in the Paseo de Castellano. The king was riding slowly through the streets with a large staff, and was near the Bank of Spain, on Alcala street, when a young man who was standing in the front row of cheering spectators rushed at the monarch's horse and clutched the bridle with his left hand. Then he put his right hand in his pocket and drew a revolver.

King Alfonso realized instantly that the man was an assassin and his skill in horsemanship and his presence of mind probably saved his life. He made the horse rear up just at the moment the assassin fired, but the king was already safe behind the horse, which got the bullet in the chest. At the same moment a policeman threw himself upon the assassin and threw him to the ground and held him there, but he was unable to grip his arms before he had fired two other shots. They were random shots, as it was impossible for him to take aim, and they did not hit anybody.

The king, after seeing the assassin taken away by the police, stood up in the stirrups and smilingly turning to the crowd and giving a military salute, cried: "Viva L'Espana!" The people took up the cue and repeated the cry loud and long. They also gave hearty cheers for the king.

After acknowledging the cheers of the people by renewed salutes King Alfonso dismounted in the most unconcerned manner. He met the anxious inquiries of the members of his staff by saying: "Gentlemen, it is nothing." Then he remounted and continued on his way to the palace.

Meanwhile the assailant of the king, who gave the name of Rafael Sanchez Alegre, and said he was a Catalonian, had been hustled by the police into the nearest house, as this was the only way to save his life from the fury of the crowd. As it was many blows reached him and he would surely have been lynched but for the prompt action of the police, who kept him in the house until the prison van arrived.

Since the assassination of Senor Jose Canalejas, Spain's prime minister, on Nov. 12, 1912, extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard King Alfonso. It was probably these measures which saved him from the assassin's bullets.

This was the most violent attempt to kill the king since May 31, 1906, when a bomb was hurled at his carriage while he and the queen were returning to the palace at Madrid from the church where they had been married. The bomb was prepared to give the appearance of a rose. Eleven persons and one of the horses drawing the king's carriage were killed.

A year before that a bomb was thrown at him while he was riding with President Loubet in Paris. It killed a trooper's horse and injured eight persons.

The most recent attempt on his life occurred Jan. 5, 1911, at Malaga, where a bomb exploded just after he and Senor Canalejas closed the palace doors behind them. On June 19, 1903, a lunatic fired a shot at him while he was returning from church wit hhis mother. In January, 1904, a bomb was found under a bench outside of the palace, and in November, 1905, cartridges were exploded in the Church of St. Peter while he was visiting there. In 1906 a bomb was thrown in Barcelona while he was visiting that city.

"Barney" Kills a Miner.

Pottsville, Pa., April 14.—John O. Dougherty, a widely known miner, was fatally squeezed by a "barney" at the Lytle colliery and died after a vain race was made with the injured man to the Pottsville hospital. The "barney" is a little square truck put on the back of mine cars to hoist them, and Dougherty was fatally squeezed when he got between the truck and a car.

Slay and Rob Man With $385.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 14.—Highway men laying in ambush shot and killed Drazio D. Pietor as he passed a lonely spot near Creswick, and then robbed his body of $385.85. Pietor was foreman for the Bessemer Sand and Loam company and was carrying the money to the field works to pay off the company's laborers.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 14.—A court order was signed directing the withdrawal of the 3000 state militia called to Buffalo in connection with the strike of the carmen of the International Railway company.

Street car service on regular schedule has been resumed on all city and suburban lines.

MEXICANS SURRENDER TO U. S. TROOPS

Survivors of Naco Garrison Cross to American Side.

Naco, Ariz., April 14.—After spiking his cannon and burning his supplies and ammunition, General Pedro Ojeda and 150 survivors of the Naco garrison of federal troops crossed to this side, surrendering to the United States troops on border patrol here.

The surrender followed an attack by some 1500 state troops which began Saturday night. The Yaqui Indians took the advance of the attackers and the barracks at Naco became a veritable slaughter pen, with dead federals and constitutionalists strewn in and about the building.

The fighting in Naco was hand to hand. Dynamite hastily made into hand grenades was used by both sides and the slaughter was terrific. Soon the custom house was in flames, and then Ojeda, his officers and his remaining men took to the streets, where fighting between them and the rebels continued. When General Ojeda's last bullet was fired he walked over the line accompanied by his fifteen remaining men.

Eigthy-six federal wounded are being cared for at this place, and accounting for the deserters who came to this side and are detained and those who surrendered with the general, it is estimated that Ojeda had over 100 killed in the battle. The rebel loss is supposed to have been very heavy, since the fighting was at such close quarters.

TWO KILLED BY TROLLEY

Farmer Drives In Front of Car on Grade Crossing.

Allentown, Pa., April 14.—The grade crossing death toll in this section was increased by two, when a team occupied by George Fritz, a farmer, and Charles B. Mory, a carriage maker, was struck by a local train of the Lehigh Valley Transit company at Coopersburg.

Fritz had bought a farm from Mory's sister and they were bound for a conveyancer to draw the deed. The trolley company was running trains in sections, and the first car had passed, when Fritz, who was deaf, drove on the crossing, directly in front of the car following, whose motorman was furiously blowing his siren.

The car wasn't speeding and horse anw buggy were not damaged. The men landed on their heads and each suffered a fractured skull, dying at the Allentown hospital.

1857 Receipt Shows Higher Taxes Now

Mantua, N. J., April 14.—A tax receipt issued in 1857 is being viewed with considerable intedest around here. This was made out to Jesse Eldridge for a hundred acre farm, including all farm implements, and calls for $10.80. The tax on the same farm now, with forty acres sold, is $150.

Finds 100 Eggs In Hen.

POPE'S CONDITION AGAIN CRITICAL

Has Sudden Relapse After Audience With Visitors.

SISTERS AT HIS BEDSIDE

Pontiff's Physicians Declare Fever Has Abated and His Recovery Is Now Possible.

Rome, April 14.—The pope has passed a sleepless night. His temperature is still high. It exceeds 102 Fahrenheit. The patient is almost delirious; his respiration is difficult and it is feared that symptoms of pneumonia are beginning.

The symptoms of bronchitis continue, particularly on the left side. The functions of the kidneys, the bulletin said, are good and the patient's general condition was satisfactory.

This was published in a special edition of the Osservatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican, and the Vatican officials again became optimistic.

Professor Marchiafava also gave a statement to the Tribuna in which he declared again that the pope's condition was not serious. The fever, he stated, had abated, although it was likely that his temperature would rise again. His illness was following the natural course, and the pope's recovery was possible.

Professor Marchiafava added that the pope was cheerful and his mind was perfectly clear. He said jokingly to his principal physician: "This is my third relapse," and smiled in a manner which showed that he was convinced of his recovery. Professor Marchiafava again reiterated the statement that the pontiff's condition was not such as to cause apprehension, otherwise he would stay at the Vatican day and night.

This relapes is due to his determination to receive visitors. He rose from bed Satprday morning and started to continue his activities as head of the church. His physicians advised against any exertion, but the pope was not to be swayed. Several visitors were received by the pontiff, but the task was too much.

The doctors seem to be in disagreement as to the pope's chances of recovery. Dr. Amici is pessimistic, while Professor Marchiafava continues to be optimistic. He persists that the pontiff's condition has not yet become alarming, but his statements are generally received with a good deal of skepticism.

The pope's respiration is difficult, owing to the cough, the heart action is irregular and the pulse rapid.

An automobile is kept waiting near the residence of Cardinal Sarefino Vannutelli in order to take him to the Vatican at any moment to administer absolution to the pope when the end seems to be approaching.

ARREST WIFE AS POISONER

Said to Have Fed Husband Strychnine In Custard Tarts.

Staunton, Va., April 14.—Mrs. Nannie Bridge was arrested at Basic City, near here, charged with the murder of her husband, Clinton Bridge.

It is alleged that he was poisoned two weeks ago through the administration of strychnine placed in custard tarts given to him by his wife.

Following a chemical analysis of the man's stomach, the arrest was made at the instigation of the commonwealth's attorney and seemed to be expected by the woman, who has been under suspicion since her husband's death.

IMPALED BY NEEDLE

Woman In Agony For Hours Until Released With Difficulty.

Berwick, Pa., April 14.—Her finger impaled by the needle of her sewing machine, held by the shuttle, Mrs. John Shear, of Berwick, stood a prisoner in agony for several hours until her frantic screams attracted John Smithers, a passerby.

Finding her impaled in such a manner that the machine toolbox could not be opened, he was obliged to take the machine apart with a pocket knife before she was released. A moment later the woman collapsed.

Find Way to Keep Gold on Table Ware

Trenton, N. J., April 14.—Workmen in one of the poteries here are said to have discovered how to lay gold on table ware so that it will stay intact through all of the wear and tear of hotel dishwashing. For years this has been a much sought accomplishment, but one of the potteries now announces that it has found how to undergalze the gold and that in actual usage the ware shows that the difficulty has been permanently solved.

A DESPERATE BANDIT

By MARGARET BARRY

Lieutenant Giuseppe Griolano of the Italian national police being summoned to headquarters at Naples, his chief said to him:

"This brigand Lanetti who has been terrorizing the mountains must be captured. I have sent out a spy, who says that in a ravine back of Sorrento he came upon the band. He was halted and told to turn about. He could see no one, but remarked the position and says that if they remain there long enough for a competent force to attack them they must all be captured. Take fifty men, go at once and bring Lanetti here dead or alive. If you can bring the others do so, but do not fail to capture their leader."

"Have you a description of him?" asked the lieutenant.

"No. Nor have I found any one who has seen him. He has but recently begun his depredations and thus far we have not been able to get any information about him. Persons who have been captured by his band and held for ransom have not been brought before him."

Lieutenant Griolano with his men went by train as near to the point they intended to attack as possible, then at nightfall followed a road leading up into the mountains.

As soon as it grew lighter the police, all armed with rifles advanced, turning a bend in the ravine, which led them face to face with a barricade of stones the bandits had erected across it. Griolano halted his men and stood looking up at the barrier. All was silent. Not a living thing was to be seen.

"The bird has flown," he remarked in a disappointed tone.

No sooner had the words been uttered than a bullet sang close to his ear.

The bravest man will duck at being thus surprised, for the nerves do not give the brain time to reason that the danger has already passed. Griolano involuntarily ducked, then ordered his men to lie down under cover till he could determine upon the best method of attack. He stood upright himself, taking in the defense before him. He was a handsome man, twenty-five years old and brave. While he was looking for an opening by which to make a flank attack upon the position another bullet sang a few inches above his head. This time he was prepared and did not flinch.

On both sides of the ravine where the barrier had been erected there was a wall of rock, which the lieutenant saw no way of passing. Indeed, the position the bandits had taken could only be captured from the front, and this could not be done without considerable loss of life. The young officer was at a loss how to proceed. While deliberating another rifle cracked, and another bullet whizzed past him, this time knocking off the uniform Napoleonic hat worn by the national police.

"For heaven's sake, lieutenant!" cried a sergeant. "Cease to expose yourself in that way. The next shot will surely bring you down."

"Those shots have come from different parts of the barrier," replied the lieutenant without heeding the warning. "There must be half our number behind it, and if we attempt to carry it by storm we shall lose the greater part of our men. I must find a way to get at them from"—

Ping! Another bullet grazed the officer's shoulder.

"I beg of you, lieutenant," reiterated the sergeant, "to get behind a rock. Why the villains have missed you four times I cannot understand."

"Nor I," replied Griolano. "However, there is nothing for it but to carry the place by assault."

Given the order to advance the men moved up the ravine, each man getting over the rocks in his own way. Every moment all expected to receive a volley that would thin their ranks, but they made half the distance and not a shot had come from the barrier. Every neck was stretched, every eye bent on the improvised fort, looking for a burst of flame and smoke and a hailstorm of bullets. Half the remaining distance was covered and yet no sign of defense.

"They are waiting," said the sergeant, "till we get right before them then each bandit will aim at one of us and they will fire all at once."

But in a few moments more they were at the base of the barricade then on and over it, all unhurt.

In the farthest corner crouched the garrison, a girl some seventeen years old. No other living being was there. Griolano stood in amazement.

"Where is Lanetti?" he asked.

"I am Lanetti."

"You Lanetti?"

"Yes, signor."

"Where are your men?"

"They are cowards. They have deserted me."

After a brief silence, during which the officer was lost in wonder, he said:

"Why did you miss me so many times. Are you so poor a marksman?"

"No, signor. I can hit a bird on the wing."

"Well?"

"You looked so handsome in your beautiful uniform I could not kill you."

The police went back to Naples and reported that the brigands had disappeared. But this is not the last of the story so far as Griolano and the bandit are concerned. The rest is a tale of love.

An Exception.

"Money, after all, means nothing but trouble."

"Still, it is the only kind of trouble which it is hard to borrow."

CHURNING DON'TS.

Don't expect sweet cream to churn as easily as sour, although the quality of the butter will be better.

Don't put cream into the churn till that vessel has been well scalded out, then rinsed copiously with cool water.

Don't fill the churn over half full of cream. If it is only one-third full it will give more space for the splashing and agitation of the cream, which are necessary in breaking up and separating the globules of fat.

Don't churn in less than from twenty to thirty minutes, as the fat globules are liable to be injured and some of them be left in the cream if the operation is performed too quickly, while the quality of the butter is apt to be affected.

Don't try to churn cream when it is cold enough to froth when agitated. Put the cold cream into the churn, set it into a large vessel of warm water (tub, boiler or large pail) and let this raise the temperature to a proper point for good churning.

Don't attempt to warm cold cream by pouring hot water into it, as this would raise the temperature too suddenly, scalding the cream and making it difficult to churn.

HOGGING DOWN CORN.

Most Economical Method of Feeding For Pork Production.

If the farmer can eliminate the expense of harvesting and feeding his corn at the fattening period he has a decided advantage over the man who does not, other things being equal writes R. L. Dean of Ohio in the National Stockman. We find that to bring corn to maturity ordinarily equals about half the cost of production. The cutting, husking and cribbing equal the other half; hence a field of corn as it stands at maturity is the cheapest hog feed we can raise. About twelve years ago we made a careful test to see if it was profitable to allow the hogs to harvest the corn themselves. With part of the hogs from that field sold at $6.60 per hundred weight and the remainder at $5.60 per hundredweight, the field yielded a return of better than $36 per acre. The hogs had access to a timothy pasture and a strip of woods. We estimated the manure returned to be a compensation for the pasture. I am acquainted with men in this locality who have done better than this.

An Illinois farmer in noting his first year's experience in hogging down corn last fall said he never had hogs to do better, even though cholera was in the vicinity. Four cents a bushel was saved in husking and the manure left on the ground. He will continue the practice. Another Illinois farmer sowed rape in his corn at the last cultivation and sums up his experience thus: "I believe better health conditions can be maintained by allowing the hogs to have a good range and letting them choose what they want to eat and when they want it. They are certainly making hogs of themselves." A farmer from Iowa turned seventy three April and May shotes into four acres of corn on Sept. 1. They had access to twelve acres of alfalfa. When they had cleaned up the corn they had gained 5,500 pounds of pork worth at that time more than $400. These hogs gained at the rate of two and one-half pounds each per day.

Another Iowa man has hogged down a small field of corn successively for four years and says that the yield of corn on the ground has steadily increased. Still another Iowa man believes that "it is a cheap way to husk corn, a convenient way to feed corn and an excellent way to fertilize the field with a product that is usually wanted. The practice is becoming general here." A friend of mine here has had a field hogged down successively for eight years. The last crop was more than usually good. His hogs did not contract the cholera which was in the neighborhood.

From the evidence at hand we conclude that for the corn belt farmer the practice of hogging down corn with supplementary forage of alfalfa, rape or clover is conducive to healthfulness rapid gains and fertility of the land. The preference is given to alfalfa for balancing the corn, but rape and clover show good results. These are the cheaper feeds for fattening.

TONGUES OF BIRDS.

That of the Humming Bird Is About the Most Curious of All.

A German naturalist has gathered some curious data with reference to the tongues of birds. As he points out, many persons suppose that woodpeckers use their sharp pointed tongues as darts with which to transfix their prey. It is true that the woodpecker, like the humming bird, can dart out its tongue with extraordinary rapidity and that its mouth is furnished with an elaborate mechanism for this purpose, yet investigation shows that the object of their swift motion is only to catch the prey, not to pierce it. For the purpose of holding the captured victim the woodpecker's tongue is furnished with a sticky secretion.

Inasmuch as it possesses the power of imitating speech, it is not surprising to learn that the parrot's tongue resembles that of man more closely than any other bird's tongue does. It is not because the parrot is more intelligent than many other birds, but because its tongue is better suited for articulation than theirs that it is able to amuse us with its mimicry.

In some respects the humming bird's tongue is the most remarkable of all. It is double nearly from end to end, so that the little creature is able to grasp its insect prey very much as if its mouth were furnished with a pair of fingers.—Harper's Weekly.

BLAMES M'NICHOL FOR BRUMM CHARGE

New Story of Pottsville Impeachment Case.

Pottsville, Pa., April 14.—"Senator McNichol wants Brumm impeached and we will impeach him."

This is the remark Senator C. A. Snyder, of Pottsville, is alleged to have made five months ago. The authority for this statement is Superintendent Thomas F. Downing, of the Alliance Coal company.

Superintendent Downing is one of the most reputable mining men in Schuylkill county and never takes any part in politics. He says he can prove the above statement, which is considered so important that Judge Brumm's friends have sent his declaration to the investigating committee at Harrisburg and thus made it a part of the record of the impeachment proceedings against the judge.

Senator Snyder denies that he has instigated the proceedings against Judge Brumm, but he was a very important witness against the judge and does not hesitate to denounce him.

In a statement made public by patriotic societies last Thursday it was said that Judge Brumm has often been threatenedwi th impeachment by politicians.

LIGHTNING'S QUEER PRANK

Nearly Disrobes Man, Not Seriously Injuring Him, But Kills Horses.

Mobile, Ala., April 14.—At Rayne, Miss., lightning played a peculiar prank when it struck Pierre Desse, a farmer driving along a road with a load of cottonseed, painfully but not seriously injuring him.

The lightning tore his hat, clothing and shoes to shreds, melting the eyelets out of his shoes and tearing the soles off. His trousers were torn as though slashed with a knife again and again. His two horses were both instantly killed. The cottonseed was not set on fire.

WANT PENNY POSTAGE

Washington, April 14.—One cent letter postage advocates arrived in Washington from Cleveland, O., to urge on President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson the early reduction of two-cent letter postage.

At the head of the delegation was Charles W. Burrows, president of the One-Cent Letter Postage association. He said now that parcel post had become a reality, one cent letter postage would be the next important change in the policy of the postoffice department.

CAUCUS RETAINS DUTY ON SUGAR

Stands by the President on Tariff Bill.

WOOL SCHEDULE NEXT

The Vote on Sugar In Democratic Caucus Indicates Free Wool Provision Will Also Win.

Washington, April 14.—The Democratic caucus stood solidly behind the ways and means committee and voted down overwhelmingly both the Broussard proposal to retain a stiff protective duty on sugar and the Hardwick proposal to place sugar on the free list immediately, instead of at the end of three years, with a duty of one cent a pound in the meantime.

The tide in favor of immediate free sugar was stemmed by Chairman Underwood in a strong appeal for giving the sugar planters three years' time in which to adjust their affairs in the event that they find that free sugar will not enabel them to compete with foreign sugar growers. Only 39 Democrats voted for the Hardwick motion to place sugar on the free list at once, while 185 voted for the ways and means committee provision of one cent for three years.

The sugar men from the cane growing states and from the sugar beet states early made their fight for protection. Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, poposed as an amendment to the committee provision a moderate reduction in the Payne-Aldrich rate. Although he received much oratorical encouragement, including a strong speech in favor of protected sugar by Representative Martin Dies, of Texas, the Louisiana congressman received but fifteen votes in favor of straight-out protection for sugar. Eight of these votes were furnished by Louisiana.

The wool men failed to stand by the sugar men, and now the Louisiana congressmen are asking the western and southwestern congressmen whether they can expect aid on wool from the sugar men. By this vote the situation is made much more hopeful for the committee's free wool provision, as the sugar men are now declaring they will not help to get protection for the wool men, who failed to vote to retain protection on sugar.

The house leaders never were in doubt as to the result of the effort of the Louisiana congressmen to get protection on sugar, but they were alarmed over the movement to force the committee to put sugar on the free list at once.

The Democratic house at the last session had adopted a free sugar bill, and it was regarded as a grave problem how to get the house this time to pass a bill that placed the duty on sugar at one cent a pound for three years before letting the article go on the free list.

Especially did the situation look serious when the movement was advocated by Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, who was chairman of the special committee to investigate the sugar trust in the last congress, and was backed by Democrats like Henry, of Texas, chairman of the committee on rules.

In a twenty-five-minute speech Hardwick assailed the sugar industry with all the arguments that had been used against it during the last few years. He pointed to the fact that on an investment of less than $150,000,000 the peopel of this country were forced to pay $52,000,000 in protective tariffs.

CORPORATIONS PROSPEROUS

Net Earnings For Past Year $250,000,000 Over Those of 1911.

Washington, April 14. — The net earnings of corporations of the United States for the calendar year 1912 were $3,000,000,000, an increase of $250,000,000 over 1911.

This amount will yield an income to the federal government, under the corporation tax law, of $30,000,000, which is $2,500,000, or 8 per cent greater than a year ago.

Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue, has received returns from practically all corporations and completed assessments to the full extent of the $30,000,000 which must be paid to the government by June 30. In addition $2,000,000 will come from delinquents of previous years.

Net corporation earnings for 1911 decreased 2 per cent as compared with 1910. The figures for 1912, however showing an increaes of about 8 per cent over 1911, were 6 per cent greater than 1910.

Pike County's Month of Celibacy.

Stroudsburg, Pa., April 14.—Not a single marriage license was issued in Pike county last month, and ministers of the various churches are beginning to feel alarmed. April promises to bring better results. Early in life Pike's young men leave the county for employment in large cities, not caring to remain on the farm and help out, and there are few industries in Pike to keep them employed.

Tillman Wars on Senate Smokers.

Washington, April 14.—War on the fumes of tobacco in the senate was begun by Senator Tillman, who introduced a resolution prohibiting smoking in the chamber or the bringing of a lighted cigar through the senate doors.

PALMER URGES VOTE ON SUFFRAGE

Would Submit Question to the People.

Washington, April 14.—Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, leader of the reorganization Democratic forces in Pennsylvania, has come out for the adoption of the proposition now before the Pennsylvania legislature to submit a woman suffrage amendment to a vote of the people.

Mr. Palmer announced his views in a letter to every member of the state senate, expressing the hope that no Democratic member of the legislature elected upon the platform which specifically promised the people such a referendum, would violate that pledge. Here is Mr. Palmer's letter:

"April 14, 1913.

"Senator ——, Harrisburg, Pa.

"My Dear Senator—The Democratic state platform specifically promised the people an immediate referendum of the question of woman suffrage. I sincerely hope that no Democrat elected upon that platform will oppose carrying out this pledge.

"It seems to me that the question is not whether we believe in woman suffrage, but whether we believe in giving the people a chance to govern themselves. If the majority of men voters of Pennsylvania want woman suffrage they ought to have an opportunity of saying so. And the state ought to know that we Democrats mean what we say when we make pledges in our platform.

"With kind regards, I am yours truly, A. M. PALMER."

Mr. Palmer said that he had been asked by the woman suffrage organizations in Pennsylvania and by hundreds of persons throughout the state to give some expression indicating just where the Democratic state organization stands on the question of a referendum on woman suffrage.

BANK OF ENGLAND ROBBED

Strong Room Securities Are Reported as Missing.

London, April 14.—The News of the World says:

"A grave sensation has been caused in London, owing to irregularities being discovered in the Bank of England. Securities to the value of many thousands of pounds are missing from the strong rooms. Rumors were afloat four or five days ago when an advertisement appeared in the Times cautioning bankers, brokers and others against dealing with certain bonds described as being lost or stolen. The face value of these bonds is $17,500, but rumor says the losses are not confined to these securities alone, running well into five figures.

"The last Bank of England scandal occurred in 1894, when a chief cashier, named May, was forced to resign owing to huge irregularities. The bank set aside $1,250,000 to met emergencies."

Mrs. Pankhurst Released.

London, April 14.—As the result of a nine days' fast, drinking only water, Mrs. Pankhurst was released from the Holloway jail. The authorities outwitted the suffragette sentries outside the gates by taking Mrs. Pankhurst in a taxicab, followed by two other taxicabs containing detectives, to a nursing home in Pembridge Gardens, Bayswaters, where her own doctor visited her, afterward stating that she is in a grave condition.

Man Ground to Death.

Williamsport, Pa., April 14. — The badly mangled body of Frank R. Ergott, twenty-two years old and married, was found along the New York Central yard at Avis. Ergott was a car repairer and was on his way home from work when struck by an engine and ground to pieces.

East Indian Theaters.

Many East Indian theaters keep their performances going until 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning. These dramatic orgies are not, says the Times of India, however, due to the length of the plays, as in Chinese theaters, but to the fact that the tramcars do not begin running till 5 o'clock. As the spectators gather from distant villages and have strong objections to paying gharry hire, they expect to be entertained until the trams start.

William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

William Bauchop Wilson, of Plossburg, Pa., secretary of the baby department of the government, the new department of labor, has had a most interesting career.

Secretary Wilson was born in Blantyre, Scotland, fifty-one years ago and came to this country with his parents nine years later. His boyhood was spent in the mines of Pennsylvania, where he shoveled coal as an assistant to his father. What education he got he acquired by home study and attending night school. As a youth of fourteen he began to take an interest in union affairs and as he grew older devoted much thought to the improvement of the conditions under which he and his companions labored. He became so active in advancing his union doctrines that at one time he was driven out of the coal fields. Later he returned and was a prominent factor in the organization of the United Mine Workers of America. In 1888 he was elected district president of District No. 9 of that organization and was international secretary and treasurer from 1900 to 1908. During that time more than $6,000,000 passed through his hands. Although a Democrat in politics, he has served in three congresses as representative from the Fifteenth Pennsylvania district, which is normally Republican.

New Commerce Commissioner.

John Hobart Marble, who was appointed a member of the interstate commerce commission, has for seven years been connected with the most active work of the commission and worked himself up from the position of confidential clerk. Mr. Marble was named to fill the place left vacant by Franklin K. Lane, who is secretary of the interior in President Wilson's cabinet.

The new commissioner is a native of Nebraska, a lawyer by profession and is forty-four years of age. He was educated in the public schools and the University of Nebraska and after his admission to the bar in 1903 began practice in San Francisco. He was appointed confidential clerk to Commissioner Lane in 1906 and about two months later was designated as attorney for the commission and intrusted with the preparation and presentation to the commission of the investigation of the relationship between grain dealers and railroad officers and employees. As a result of this investigation the commission directed comprehensive reforms in the handling of grain by railroads.

Last year he was appointed secretary of the commission, an office he held when appointed a member of the board. The senate committee which investigated the charges resulting in the unseating of Senator William Lorimer of Illinois asked to have the services of Mr. Marble as its counsel, and the commerce board gave him leave of absence for the purpose.

OLD AT 40

So many people whom you meet about the time they reach 40 begin by saying "I can't do this, and I can't do that, because I'm getting old now", they begin to act old, feel old and they are older in appearance than many who are much more advanced in years.

When you begin to feel old, when your energy begins to fail build yourself up with our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. It is a wonderful blood-maker and strengthener.

Mr. J. N. Kelley, aged 75 who lives at Lake Charles, La., says: "I took Vinol for a run-down condition, it not only built up my strength, but I feel fifteen years younger than I did before taking it."

Thousands of old people have found in Vinol just the medicine they need to build up the feeble, weakened system and create strength. If it fails, we return your money. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

600 Bushels of Seed Potatoes

FOR SA LE

Sir Walter Raleigh Variety

The Kind of Potatoes That Brings the Price When Selling

These potatoes were grown in Franklin County near Mercersburg, by Dr Irving, President of Mercersburg Academy and last season he had an average yeild of over 200 bushels of salable potatoes per acre, with over 20 acres planted.

If the potato growers of Adams County will grow a round potato and have just one variety they will realize 10 cents more per bnshel, than they are now getting. No buyer can pay the top price for potatoes when each farmer grows several different varieties of both long and round stock.

Our prices are such that you will be justified in planting a large acreage.
